Portugal An Adventure of Discovery

Entre o Céu e a Terra

Portugal Rediscovered!

Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery is Portugal's first all-encompassing digital multimedia initiative. The one hour television special, fifteen minute film experience, home video and DVD, deluxe hardcover book, web site/online community, audio CD soundtrack, Digital Theatre and Educational Tour promise to inspire a renewed sense of identity and pride amongst all Portuguese while showcasing the country to a global audience — conservatively projected at between 65 and 105 million viewers. Designed to increase Portugal's visibility both at home and abroad and to unite Portuguese-speaking communities around the world, it is a proactive response to some of the major issues affecting the country today, namely: image, visibility, competition and foreign investment.

HI-VISION Media assembled an international team of award-winning photographers, filmmakers, writers and artists—all pioneers in the field of aerial High Definition Television, or HDTV (see Appendix 1)—to document this extraordinary country and its unparalleled beauty. Capturing Portugal's countless awe-inspiring locales, including the Azores and Madeira, post-production is being conducted at state of the art facilities in North America. The projected launch date of Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery is spring/summer 2005.

An Inspiring Story of the Portuguese Spirit

In 1996, Roy Monteiro, a successful entrepreneur who had emigrated from Portugal to Canada with his family as a young boy, witnessed a television event that would have a profound impact upon his life. Entitled Over Beautiful British Columbia, the one-hour aerial documentary, filmed in dazzling High Definition Television, eloquently captured the pristine beauty and unique heritage of his adopted province. Roy was deeply moved and inspired: Why not use the same format to capture the essence of his beloved homeland, encouraging all Portuguese to discover their magnificent country from a whole new perspective?

In the spirit of many Portuguese before him, Roy embarked on an exhilarating journey to rediscover his own heritage and to showcase Portugal's unique scenic and cultural grandeur to a global audience. He overcame countless hurdles and seemingly insurmountable odds, investing myriad resources in bringing his creative vision to life. Extensive research was carried out and a multitude of locations identified and scouted. Several months of dawn to dusk flights, eight different helicopters, and one unshakable dream to capture 55 hours of video and 15 000 photographs. Footage and images were logged, catalogued and sorted, followed by weeks and weeks of careful editing and an elaborate and exacting post-production process. Scripts and essays written, music composed, recorded and mastered, translations executed, graphic design, printing and reproduction—all time consuming and essential steps.

The production of the films and companion book were the culmination of a dream – to unite the millions of Portuguese and their descendants throughout the world in an international community based upon a shared language and culture. Roy's amazing dedication and commitment to this important initiative has brought it near to completion, but now it is time for Portuguese institutions, corporations and responsible citizens to embrace this landmark initiative by partnering with us to facilitate the presentation of Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery to the people of Portugal and to the world

One Hour Television Special

During the Age of Discoveries, Portugal was a leader in world exploration. Portuguese navigators followed the trade winds and tides to Africa, the Americas, Asia and home again. Now that same sense of discovery is focused inside Portugal's own borders — its natural beauty, rich history and contemporary charm. The face of Portugal has never been captured with such elegance. The spirit of Portugal has never been portrayed more eloquently.

Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery is the collective work of top aerial photographers using specially equipped helicopters and HDTV cameras. Hi-Vision chose PBS affiliate KCTS as a production partner because of its proven leadership in HDTV aerial cinematography. Our mission was to tell the story of Portugal in the most riveting and enduring images possible. Hundreds of hours of flying cover the mainland, the Azores and Madeira. Stone castles and cathedrals, sprawling vineyards and cities, Portugal's eternal alliance with the sea- all sumptuously filmed in HDTV. Distilled into one spectacular hour, the narration and musical score feature Portugal's leading talents. Every frame, every note and every word define Portugal with passion.

Produced in English, Portuguese, French,
Spanish and German versions.
Global broadcast begins summer 2005.

High Definition Television: The Dawn of a New Era in Film and Video Technology

Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery was filmed in revolutionary High Definition video, otherwise known as HDTV. Think of HDTV as the pinnacle of image technology, the new world standard in television and video production, offering the viewer razor sharp images, glorious colours and astounding visual clarity.

An HDTV picture is the crispest, clearest, highest- resolution television and video technology currently available, presenting the world just as the human eye sees it. While standard television offers 525 scan lines of video information and only 2 channels of stereo sound, HDTV pictures are comprised of 1,080 scan lines and 5 surround sound channels, resulting in dramatically superior image and audio quality. And, with a wider 16:9 screen ratio, similar to a movie screen, High Definition is the technological format of the 21st century and the greatest advance in television imaging since the invention of the colour television.

High Definition is the perfect medium for portraying the stunning landscapes and vistas of Portugal. Recording images so true to life you'll feel the spray of the Atlantic on your face as you swoop over the rocky cliffs of the Portuguese coast. Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery is the first production about Portugal created with HDTV technology.

HDTV is the broadcast standard in Japan and the digital standard in North America.

RTP is Portugal's national public media network whose primary channels include RTP 1; the country's leading public broadcaster; RTP 2, a public service channel devoted to culture; and RTP International, the satellite channel providing a communications bridge between Portugal and all major Portuguese communities around the world. With its dedication to public service and quality programming, RTP provided invaluable assistance in insuring that Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery accurately and eloquently captured the essence of Portugal and its heritage. As our co-production partner RTP is committed to broadcasting Portugal - An Adventure of Discovery in a desirable primetime slot.

On any given day, RTP's primetime programming is watched by approximately one-third of the available viewing households.

PBS/America – An Overview of Audience Reach

Highly affordable, the cost per thousand for sponsorship of a PBS program is less than half the cost of advertising on commercial television, and public TV offers an uncluttered environment where your message will stand out from the rest.

Acknowledged as a leading media brand the world over PBS affords an exceptional opportunity for sponsors who seek to position themselves as corporate leaders. A recent study has proven that sponsors are well rewarded for associating their products and services with PBS, benefiting from the "Halo Effect" of positive brand association.

- 82% of PBS viewers believe that PBS sponsors are industry leaders
- 74% of PBS viewers believe that PBS sponsors are committed to quality and excellence
- 93% of PBS viewers believe that PBS sponsors provide a public service
- 62% of PBS viewers are more likely to purchase PBS sponsors' products

The PBS audience is a much sought after demographic. Educated and influential, these viewers are discriminating in their television viewing and highly committed to quality programming, making them difficult to target through more traditional marketing channels. PBS' viewers are best reached through sponsorship and are attractive because of their purchasing power and strong loyalty to public television and its affiliated sponsors.
